Sherrie Shines – Saddle Boy

Sherrie was raised on a farm outside of Dubbo, in Central NSW.

Her father owned "Sandy-Hill" riding school, where he taught people how to ride horses and he held rodeos where Slim Dusty would attend.

Sherrie grew up listening to her favourite country music songs and at night would fall asleep listening to "Lights on The Hill".

Partner and Manager John has helped create "Sherrie Shines" and is developing her career as an independent country music singer songwriter.

They decided to travel to Tamworth to record with one of Slims renowned guitar players, multi-award-winning producer, Lindsay Butler OAM and chose to cover one of Slim massive hit songs, "Saddle Boy".

Young guitar picker and friend Anthony Baxter featured on the track alongside of seasoned session musicians, Shaza Leigh, Peggy Gilchrist and Pixie Jenkins.

Even though Sherrie normally writes and records her own songs, she is very proud of her version of "Saddle Boy" and pleased to release it to radio as the first single from her forthcoming album.
