Ben Walker – Head In The Clouds

With only weeks to go until the release of his debut album “A Place I like to Go To, Sydney based Singer Songwriter Ben Walker provides us with the first track, the thoughtful and wonderfully crafted “Head In The Clouds”.

Written at the DAG Sheep Station in Nundle with Luke O’Shea and Brendan Smoother, talking about the song, Ben Says: “I had this phrase in my head “There’s a place I like to go to” and I knew I wanted to talk about how music for me is that one thing that transforms you into the perfect version of yourself, the best place you can go where nothing but good can touch you, but I couldn’t get beyond the first line! I was sat outside at the DAG and Luke and Brendan came to join me, I explained the idea, Luke Borrowed my guitar and added the riff you hear through the song and the 3 of us threw out lines. Once we started the song took 20 minutes!”
