Cathy Dobson ft. Angus Gill – Aloysius

I had on my songwriter “to do list” a song with a man’s name. “Aloysius” (Al-a-wishus) Jeremiah Johnson Jones was a name that flowed so well. “Aloysius” is another story from “Sundowner Drive”. It’s a tale of a holiday romance that began at the Sundowner Holiday Park one Summer.

First love can be so idealised and one that can never happen again as a first love. Looking back the romance seems to be the best love ever. Can it be rekindled years later? Can you find each other again?

Today we can keep in touch through social media, but 40-50 years ago those holiday romances were often fleeting, unless you kept in contact through written letters.

We were left to wonder “what if?” ....

The song began with the name “Aloysius Jeremiah Johnson Jones” and Angus and I worked through the story together.

Cathy Dobson is an award winning Melbourne based singer/songwriter/guitarist. She has been recognised by the Australian Songwriting Association for Songwriting Excellence.

Cathy has released 5 albums and has a new album-“Sundowner Drive”- due for release soon. It’s a concept album of co-writes with Angus Gill.

Her previous albums are “Prodigal Child”, “Ball and chain”, “Tales of a suburban housewife”, “A farmer’s lullaby” and “Living in Mediocreville”.

Many of Cathy’s songs have regularly reached the country music charts of “The Australian radio”, OZ Music and the “Campfire publishing”.

Cathy has worked with Khristian Mizzi, Luke O’Shea, Allan Caswell, Angus Gill and Charles Jenkins.

Most songs are available on Spotify.
